in 2020 the united kingdom reached a bewildering milestone ten successive years of conservative rule in that decade there were three prime ministers each in turn described as the worst leader we ever had ministerial resignations by the hundred and an unrelenting stream of ineffectual divisive bum slurry oozing from 10 downing street the decade in tory is an inglorious rollicking and entirely true account of ten years of demonstrable lies relentless incompetence epic waste serial corruption official police investigations anti democratic practices abuse of power dereliction of duty and hundreds of thousands of avoidable deaths with his signature scathing wit russell jones breaks down the government s interminable failures year by year covering everything from david cameron s pledge to tackle inequality which reduced uk life expectancy for the first time since 1841 through the bewildering storm of lies and betrayals that led to brexit devastating education cuts serial mismanagement of the nhs and boris johnson s calamitous response to the covid 19 pandemic it will leave you gasping and wondering can things possibly get any worse explaining the connection between economics and violent extremism this book argues that american foreign policy must be rebalanced with a greater emphasis on social inclusion and shared prosperity in order to mitigate the root causes of conflict rosenberger argues that economic coercion has usually proven counterproductive and that a militarized american foreign policy too often results in frustration and strategic failure he analyses this theory through a number of case studies from the treaty of versailles to the more recent issues of israel in gaza us sanctions against iran the us backed saudi led boycott of qatar and donald trump s trade war against china he concludes that the economic logic of social inclusion and shared prosperity demonstrated in jean monnet s european coal and steel community would be a more successful strategy in reducing the demand for violence in the civil wars in afghanistan iraq yemen and syria this book will be of particular relevance for courses on american foreign policy international relations and international political economy and seminars on the near east and south asia professional economists diplomats and military officers in america and in the near east and south asia will also find the argument useful starting from the key concept of geo economics this book investigates the new power politics and argues that the changing structural features of the contemporary international system are recasting the strategic imperatives of foreign policy practice states increasingly practice power politics by economic means whether it is about iran s nuclear programme or russia s annexation of crimea western states prefer economic sanctions to military force most rising powers have also become cunning agents of economic statecraft china for instance is using finance investment and trade as means to gain strategic influence and embed its global rise yet the way states use economic power to pursue strategic aims remains an understudied topic in international political economy and international relations the contributions to this volume assess geo economics as a form of power politics they show how power and security are no longer simply coupled to the physical control of territory by military means but also to commanding and manipulating the economic binds that are decisive in today s globalised and highly interconnected world indeed as the volume shows the ability to wield economic power forms an essential means in the foreign policies of major powers in so doing the book challenges simplistic accounts of a return to traditional military driven geopolitics while not succumbing to any unfounded idealism based on the supposedly stabilising effects of interdependence on international relations as such it advances our understanding of geo economics as a strategic practice and as an innovative and timely analytical approach this book will be of much interest to students of security studies international political economy foreign policy and international relations in general
