while exploring events that led to the bloodshed in kosovo in 1999 denisa kostovicova shows that the legacy of ethnic segregation is one of the major obstacles the international community faces in its efforts to establish an integrated multi ethnic society in this territory of interest to academics and students of nationalism and politics as well as practitioners and journalists this book is an important advance in research on one of the most tragic european conflicts of recent times jacket at a time when educational issues have increasingly come to determine the social and political discourse and major reforms of the education system are being discussed and implemented and when migration has become a significant phenomenon contributing to changes in the religious landscape of the european continent it is highly appropriate to focus our attention on the concrete situation regarding religious education this volume contains again on the basis of thirteen key questions the countries in southeastern europe albania bosnia and herzegovina bulgaria kosovo republic of north macedonia montenegro romania serbia and turkey beyond the all important tasks of taking stock and making international comparisons the aim of this book is to create a foundation for further action in the field of education especially with regard to interfaith expertise this collection of essays gives an overview on current developments in the field of education in the successor states of ex yugoslavia and the republic of moldova from the mid 1990s to today the impact of nation and state building processes on the politics of history and on schooling are analysed against the background of the complex social and political transformations that have been taking place in the region changes that are usually subsumed under the problematic and rather unspecific notion of transition the book engages in such issues like what is the role of international actors and which impact have interventions in education what are the preconditions for lasting and sustainable reforms in education what goals are inscribed in history textbook narratives the book addresses these questions from an interdisciplinary perspective and offers insights into the complicated and ambiguous developments in the field of education in southeast europe during the last decade decades after the previously unimaginable horrors of the nazi extermination camps and the dropping of nuclear bombs on hiroshima and nagasaki their memories remain part of our lives in academic and human terms preserving awareness of this past is an ethical imperative this volume concerns narratives about and allusions to world war ii across contemporary europe and explains why contemporary europeans continue to be drawn to it as a template of comparison interpretation even prediction this volume adds a distinctly interdisciplinary approach to the trajectories of recent academic inquiries historians sociologists anthropologists linguists political scientists and area study specialists contribute wide ranging theoretical paradigms disciplinary frameworks and methodological approaches the volume focuses on how where and to what effect world war ii has been remembered the editors discuss how world war ii in particular continues to be a point of reference across the political spectrum and not only in europe it will be of interest for those interested in popular culture world war ii history and national identity studies this volume explores english studies from the perspective of linguistics and applied linguistics by examining developments within their selected topics the authors of these 18 chapters provide a broad overview of english studies as related to their specific points of interest topics range from the well established such as negation grammaticalization and the role of culture in learning english to those that are currently being revisited or are considered relatively new such as corpus analysis english as a lingua franca and third language acquisition the chapters reflect a modern approach to linguistic and applied linguistic phenomena including diachronic and synchronic perspectives as well as quantitative and qualitative research paradigms english studies as practiced at the english department in zagreb during the last 80 years the anniversary of which instigated the invitation of contributions for this collection are presented here as a vibrant field characterized by dynamics and complexities that introduce novel ideas and help us embrace emerging aspects of more established concepts this book explores how school history textbooks are used to perpetuate nationalistic policies within divided regions exploring the divide and rule politics across ex yugoslav successor states the editors and contributors draw upon a wide range of case studies from across the region textbooks and other educational media provide the foundations upon which the new generation build understanding about their own context and the events that are creating their present by promoting nationalistic politics in such media textbooks themselves can be used as tools to further promote and preserve ongoing hostility between ethnic groups following periods of conflict this edited collection will appeal to scholars of educational media history education and post conflict societies rapid growth of interest in the research of childhood during the last several decades can be regarded not only as an indicator but also as an important factor in the long term processes of changes which have radically transformed history as a scientific discipline with the growth of the history of childhood as a discipline a series of problems neglected until then has been opened and along the questions about the new sources and equivalent methods of research this is especially true for historiography in the south east european countries where social history and historical anthropology is still marginal the volume comprises 18 contributions to the topic with authors from all countries of the region focussing on the 19th and 20th century topics like upbringing of female children in serbia or rural childhoods in mountain regions of austria and greece are as well touched as children and war and children and migration this is the first volume that provides an international readership with an overall picture on childhood in south eastern europe this collection presents interdisciplinary perspectives on educating for peace in bosnia and herzegovina it explores a range of theories contexts pedagogies and practices within formal education settings and draws attention to the multiple roles that teachers play in fostering socially transformative learning the volume offers readers a critical exploration of peace pedagogy as an imagined ideal and fluid space between post war educational politics institutional and curricular constraints and the lived experiences and identities of teachers and students in socially and historically situated communities the book highlights local voices initiatives and practices by illustrating good examples of how classrooms are being connected to communities teacher education programs and teachers continued professional development it demonstrates why and how the grammars of peace in bosnia and herzegovina are still in a state of flux and negotiation and what the implications are for classroom practice and pedagogy recommendations are offered for policymakers curriculum developers teacher educators and teachers on how peace pedagogies can be promoted at all levels of the education system and through pre service and in service teacher education taking into account the structural uniqueness of the country a comparative analysis of the dominant ideologies and modes of legitimization in communist yugoslavia and post communist serbia and croatia the aim of the book is to identify and explain dominant normative and operative ideologies and principal modes of legitimization in these three case studies this book offers vivid insights into policies of religious education in schools since the series of wars in former yugoslavia in the 1990 s it traces the segregation among members of different ethnic groups in slovenia bosnia herzegovina croatia and serbia which has never been greater or more systematic it aims to be a necessary step in understanding the origins of this systematic segregation and how it is reproduced in educational practice asserting that the politicization of religion in the school textbooks is one of the motors responsible for the ongoing ethnic segregation it also deals with complex aspects of this issue such as the general situation of religion in the different countries the social position of churches the issues of gender the reconciliation after the yugoslav wars and the integration of the eu this book addresses practices of bordering debordering and rebordering on the territory of the former austro hungarian monarchy after state borders had been remapped on the negotiation tables of the paris peace treaties following the first world war as life in borderlands did not correspond to the peaceful europe articulated in the paris treaties a multitude of un foreseen complications followed the drawing of borders and states the chapters in this book include new case studies on the creation centralization or peripheralization of border regions such as subcarpathian rus vojvodina banat and the carpathian mountains on border zones such as the czechoslovakian harbour in germany and on cross border activities the book shows how disputes over national identities and ethnic minorities as well as other factors such as the economic consequences of the new state borders appeared on the interwar political agenda and coloured the lives of borderland inhabitants the contributions demonstrate the practices of borderland inhabitants in the establishment functioning disorganization or ultimate breakdown of some of the newly created interwar nation states the chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal european review of history this volume addresses textbooks written in the albanian language and in use in albania kosovo macedonia and serbia political myths and mythical spaces play a key role in shaping processes of identity building concepts of self and other and ideas pertaining to the location of the self and nation within a post conflict context the albanian case is particularly interesting because the majority of albanians live outside the borders of albania despite the existence of the nation state which gives rise to fascinating complexities regarding the shaping of national identities and myths surrounding concepts of self and other what textbooks teach is always of political interest as they represent society s intentions for its next generation this renders identity building processes via textbooks in this context a particularly fascinating topic for research here examined through the lens of myths and mythical spaces how do schools worldwide treat the holocaust as a subject in which countries does the holocaust form part of classroom teaching are representations of the holocaust always accurate balanced and unprejudiced in curricula and textbooks this study carried out by unesco and the georg eckert institute for international textbook research compares for the first time representations of the holocaust in school textbooks and national curricula drawing on data which includes countries in which there exists no or little information about representations of the holocaust the study shows where the holocaust is established in official guidelines and contains a close textbook study focusing on the comprehensiveness and accuracy of representations and historical narratives the book highlights evolving practices worldwide and thus provides education stakeholders with comprehensive documentation about current trends in curricula directives and textbook representations of the holocaust it further formulates recommendations that will help policy makers provide the educational means by which pupils may develop holocaust literacy
